Continuing upon the talk of a general alliance between Great Britain and the United States the St. James Gazette says: "We would rather have it (the alliance) with the United States than any other people; but a standing offensive and defensive agreement is a compromising thing. Both sides to the agreement would act together in a defined region for a limited number of objects. Another matter is that the nterests of Great Britain and the United States in Central America and parts of South America are identical. We do not intend to make conquests anywhere in America and therefore the United States has no ground for jeal-ousy. Both nations desire to trade in peace and are molested by Spanish
